

Today we are saddened to announce the postponement of this year's Music Industry Trusts Award ceremony in light of the current Covid-19 outbreak.

After closely following government actions and statements, as well as consulting with our partners, we have concluded that this is the only possible outcome. The rescheduled ceremony will now take place on Monday 1 November 2021 and recognise excellence in the newest Music Industry Trusts Award recipient.

The annual red-carpet event at Grosvenor House in London, which was due to celebrate its 29th year, is recognised as one of the true benchmarks of achievement in the UK music business and continues to benefit hugely deserving causes year after year. The MITS Award supports two important charities, the BRIT Trust and Nordoff Robbins, and is sponsored by Hipgnosis, PPL, SJM Concerts and Spotify.

David Munns OBE, chairman of the MITS Award committee, says:

"It is with great regret that we have decided to postpone our highly-anticipated ceremony. Right now our number one priority is the health and safety of our guests and like many other charitable organisations we have had to make the difficult decision to reschedule the ceremony until a more suitable time. We are incredibly grateful to Grosvenor House for their ongoing support and for hosting us each year. We look forward to announcing the recipient and celebrating at next year's ceremony."

At this time the MITS Awards charities, the BRIT Trust and Nordoff Robbins, need support more than ever. The ceremony is one of the largest fundraisers in their calendar and any donations are welcome. To donate, please visit www.mitsaward.co.uk
